2008 LEGISLATIVE SUMMARY

Highlights from the 2008 Legislative Session are outlined in the attached summary. Several bills related to victims of domestic and sexual assault were signed into law as well as some technical changes to public assistance regulations. Many other bills relevant to the economic status of Minnesota's women were signed into law, while others did not progress or were vetoed.

Several overarching themes in the attached summary help explain why this compilation of bills is significant to the women in Minnesota.

In order to be economically successful:

- Women must be physically safe, free from violence in their homes and communities. Preventing violence and protecting victims is essential.
- Women must be healthy, have access to health care, and benefit from public policy that supports preventative efforts. Women must be recognized and financially rewarded for their roles as caregivers for the multiple generations of their families.
- Women must have work that is equal in pay to men, particularly in low-paying sectors where women are often clustered. The workplace must enable them to enter and exit without penalty of financial loss. Pay equity must extend through later life for women.
- Childcare must be available, accessible and affordable for women, men and families.
- Safety net programs must be present to enable the large percentage of poor women in our state to maintain or build economic success; programs must be designed with elasticity so women are not trapped by competing program requirements, but can utilize programs in times of crisis and need.

Many of the bills included reflect the work we have been doing in conjunction with the Commission to End Poverty in Minnesota by 2020. The majority of the poor in Minnesota are women. Many of these women are older, have outlived spouses and are significantly economically disadvantaged. Many of these women are victims of domestic and sexual assault. Many of these women are disabled. Many of these women have not had access or opportunity to work or have life experiences that are equal to their male counterparts.

The bills reported here are a small percentage of the bills the OESW has tracked through this biennium. A full listing of these bills is available upon request. Additionally, as required by our authorizing statute, the OESW will present a biennial report to the legislature which will include a comprehensive summary of legislation as well as recommendations to the legislature for activity the next biennium.
